Dear Colleagues:

I enclose a bound copy of the slides used by our scientists in the presentation they are making to OSHA this morning. There are two sets (divided by a yellow sheet). The first set is the "Sears" presentation; the second is the "Ogden" presentation.

Interspersed among the Sears slides are some explanatory notes and information that we felt appropriate to include. Some of these notes refer to references that we also provided OSHA in a tabbed notebook. I have not included a copy of the notebook, as it is quite voluminous to copy and I believe you all probably have copies of these references anyway. I have included the four-page bibliography from the front of the notebook that serves as an index to the materials it contains. If you would like copies of particular references, please let me know and I will try to accommodate.

"We work for smokers."

The Ogden presentation does not have such interspersed notes. The references in support of that presentation are tabbed in the notebook under "Background."

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in cursive script, appearing to read "Mary".
